

What is in the

AMERICAN JOBS PLAN?

As originally proposed, President Biden's American Jobs Plan would be a nearly $2.6 trillion package that would represent a massive investment in a range of national priorities. Importantly, the administration has proposed paying for the cost of the bill so it doesn't add to our national debt.

Key items in the plan include:

Transportation Infrastructure

$596 Billion

Provides funding for electric vehicles, public transit, rail services, and modernizing the nation's bridges, highways, and roads.

Manufacturing, Jobs, and Research & Development

$566 Billion

Funds domestic manufacturing, research & development efforts, and programs for workforce development and retraining.

Caretaking Investment

$400 Billion

Expands access to home and community-based services, as well as long-term care services under Medicaid.

Clean Energy Tax Credits

$368 Billion

Offers additional clean energy tax breaks.

Housing and Buildings

$326 Billion

Provides funding for energy-efficient housing units, upgraded and new public schools, and public housing.

Broadband, Power, and Clean Drinking Water

$309 Billion

Funds high-speed broadband, power grid improvements, upgrades to the drinking water supply, and replacement of lead pipes and service lines.
